Wonder if Jno. G. Capers is sorry he done it?

It's mighty good to be a Democrat just now.

Here's hoping Tom Watson will jine the new party.

The "piping days of peace" are no longer with us.

The present State campaign is not very edifying, to say the least.

This is the open season for that chestnut, "the poor man's taxes."

Even Mr. Roosevelt was powerless against the Republican machine.

It appears that the whereabouts of the Great Seal of the Confederacy is still a live issue.

"Back from Elba"—on to Waterloo—next, to St. Helena. Takes nerve to get that off.

Tom Watson is unable to attend the Democratic convention on account of sickness.

Justice Hughes believes a bird in hand to be worth two in the bush. No empty nomination for him.

The county fair this fall is going to be one of the best—and don't you forget that.

"Thou shalt not steal" is to be the motto of Mr. Roosevelt's new party. Time to lock the chicken-coop door.

If we are to judge from the accounts of the State campaign meetings, they are "all honorable men"—not.

Seems to us that we have a faint recollection of hearing somebody say something about "licked to a frazzle."

The Democrats have all along contended that the Republicans would steal—and now Teddy has went and proved it.

Abbeville landed the next meeting of the State Building and Loan Association. Now for the Firemen's Tournament.

What the Democrats need just now more than anything else is harmony. The fight on Judge Parker is exceedingly ill-timed.

The building of good roads should be the liveliest topic before the people today. To Abbeville it means more than to many other communities with better railroad facilities.

Having purged their systems in the "rump" convention of the speeches intended for the regular Republican gathering, several gentlemen are expected to subside somewhat.

The Germans have laughed the Emperor, a boat larger than the ill-fated Titanic. Profiting by the misfortune of the Titanic, they have made provision for an ample supply of life-boats.

THE ARMY WORM.

This pest has started on its depredations early this year. It has made its appearance in Georgia already and the Farmers Union is taking steps to fight it.

The farmers in this State should be on the lookout for it and be prepared to fight it if it comes, which it seems likely to do.

Paris green is one of the best agencies to check the onslaught of this worm, or any other worm or bug that chews the leaf.

It will be necessary to find out where the worm begins and begin there with the poison, sprinkling it on the cotton leaf in the same manner in which it is sprinkled on potatoes.

Paris green in bulk is about the cheapest poison and most effective poison that can be bought.

By watching the army worm and dosing that part of the field where they begin, the pest can be successfully checked.

HON. R. S. WHALEY.

It appears that Hon. R. S. Whaley, of Charleston, is meeting with some opposition to his candidacy for election to the House of Representatives from Charleston county. While Mr. Whaley may not be of the type usually popular for their hand-shaking and story-telling capacities, he is, without doubt, a thoughtful and well-balanced man, who would add grace, and poise, and dignity to any assemblage to which he might belong. He is a man of real constructive ability and his presence has been felt in every session of the House of which he has been a member. His splendid service as Speaker of the House has attracted to him a following outside of his own county, which might stand his constituency in good stead. Charleston can ill afford to refuse to return Mr. Whaley and the State of South Carolina needs his counsel in the House.

THE THIRD PARTY.

That there was a great popular demand for Mr. Roosevelt to lead the Republican party was clearly demonstrated in every State where the issue was submitted to the rank and file of his party. That he was clearly the choice of the majority of his party was amply attested by the large lead of instructed uncontested delegates with which he entered the convention. There is also much justice in the Colonel's contention that he was robbed of the nomination by the steam-roller tactics of the executive committee.

But that there is any great popular demand for the formation of a third party, with the Rough Rider as its standard-bearer, is more than doubtful.

Seeing what they believed to be an overwhelming defeat impending, as a result of the blunders of the Taft administration, many leaders of the progressive wing of Republican party called upon Mr. Roosevelt to come to the aid of the party. Having failed to carry their point within the party ranks, many of these leaders will no doubt prefer to remain loyal to their former affiliations and will hardly be willing to follow blindly the leadership of the Colonel into the laborious work of building a political machine from its inception.

Many of these men are already in control of the Republican machine in their States and will scarcely be willing to cut loose from the emoluments and prestige attendant upon such control for the uncertain glory of taking part in a doubtful movement to place Roosevelt in power once more.

For this reason we hardly expect the new movement to assume much force. Much, of course, may depend upon the action of the Democrats at Baltimore. The nomination of a known reactionary might alienate the support of the progressive element of the party and cause a considerable defection to the third-tier, who is a third party man as well, but the nomination of a progressive in whom the rank and file have confidence, while holding intact that element of the party, will not be apt to alienate much of the conservative or reactionary element, because that portion of both parties is more inclined to accept the dictum of the party as final than their more radical brethren on the progressive side.

All of this leads up to the prediction that the nomination of a strong progressive at Baltimore and the adoption of a platform in line with what are known as progressive policies will do more to scotch the new party in its inception than anything else that could happen. In fact, we believe such action would make the success of the new party so very doubtful that Mr. Roosevelt, who is the worst loser in the world, would scarcely attempt to push his fight to a conclusion.

All in all the Democratic sky is brighter than for many years, and success seems more than probable.

In case the Colonel does run, the result is almost certain from the beginning. He and Taft will divide the Republican vote, perhaps about equally. The Democrats will fail of a majority in the general election and the election of president will be thrown into a Democratic Congress, which will insure Democratic success.

In case the Colonel doesn't run, his progressive friends, governed by the action of the Republican convention and determined on progression, will vote for a progressive Democrat in preference to Taft. So with the Democrats it seems to be a case of "heads I win, tails you lose."

A GREAT FRUIT CROP.

This year promises to be a fine fruit year. Housekeepers should prepare to save the crop and utilize it. During such years much fruit is wasted that ought to be saved. Even though the housekeeper has put up enough to do for a year or so, this is no reason why the rest should go to waste. Save it all, one way or another.

It means right much work. We hope to see the time when approved methods of saving the fruit crop will be adopted, such as evaporating plants and canning establishments. Conditions are better for saving the fruit than they have been since the peach was turned into brandy. In that day not many peaches went to waste, because the brandy was so good a thing that farmers assiduously gathered the fruit and took it to the nearest still.

Exchange Table

Let's Muzzle the Dogs.

Fort Mill Times.

Summer time is here, and prudence would seem to dictate the wisdom of the city council passing an ordinance requiring that all dogs running on the streets be muzzled. Every parent during the summer months feels great anxiety for the safety of their children on the streets as long as dogs are allowed to run loose and at will over the town. One child bitten by a mad dog would be worth all the worthless canines, as well as the precious little petted pups. Muzzling them will not interfere with the happiness of the dog and will render him safe in so far as children go. Let the first meeting of the council pass such ordinance and remove the fear and dread incident to the hot summer months.

Studying Pellagra.

Spartanburg Herald.

Men of distinguished attainments in their profession, representing the New York Post-graduate hospital, are to establish in Spartanburg headquarters for the study and treatment of pellagra, the disease that has manifested itself in the South and has proven a baffling problem for physicians and scientists. The institution is brought to this city largely through the initiative of Dr. J. H. Allen of the staff of the Spartanburg hospital and one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the city.

The expenses of the establishment are borne by students of the disease in the East and by the government. The best equipped men to be found in the country have been assigned to this work and all that science and close study of the disease may accomplish is to be expected from the investigations that will be made in this city within the next few months.

The physicians of this county have been among the foremost students of this disease and will no doubt cooperate in every way possible with the gentlemen who are to take up their work here.

For Reduction.

Greenville Piedmont.

The "Rock Hill plan" ought to be used on Democratic presidential candidates four years hence.

Good Advice.

Exchange.

The man who gets the most out of his corn is not the man who seeks to convert it at once into money, but the man who uses it, in connection with other feeds, to build up his farm through the feeding of good live-stock. The man whose corn crop goes into the silo, does not get any immediate cash returns for it, but he probably makes more out of it in the long run than the man who handles it any other way.

Took An Unkind Advantage.

Down in Oklahoma they have a baseball association called the Oklahoma State league. During one of their games at Tulsa recently, an old man went to the park, paid his money and took a seat on the bleachers. He sat with a look of disgust on his face while the pitcher "fanned" the visitors in one, two, three order.

"How do you like the game, uncle?" asked a fan who sat next to him.

"It's all right, I reckon," said the old man, "but they ought to get another man to throw them balls. That there man can't throw a ball so's the other boys can hit it."—Kansas City Star.
